Springing Forward into the Future

Spring is an amazing time of growth and new beginnings. From buds that seem to burst open before our eyes, to graduating students embarking on a new chapter in their lives; the months leading up to summertime hold fantastic promise and opportunity.

During this past month, Paul had the privilege of being a part of several events that highlighted past accomplishments as well as new directions. In early May, Paul had the distinct honor of being the keynote speaker as NorthWest Arkansas Community College conferred over 330 associate degrees and certificates during the 19th Annual Commencement Ceremony. Paul's special message to the graduates reminded each person in the audience of their unique abilities and the promise that lay ahead for those ready to embrace their future.

Using examples of his experiences since his own college graduation, Paul related to the students in a real, down-to-earth way. "There always will be those who face greater obstacles in life than others," Paul reminded the students. "When this occurs, we have the opportunity to look toward them, not away...that's the value of humanity...reaching out to others, when no one else will."

smile; or one simple act of generosity," he shared. "You leave your legacy with each student you meet."

Paul thoroughly enjoyed having the opportunity to work with both the educators of NorthWest Arkansas Community College and the North Little Rock School District.

Stepping from the classroom into the boardroom, Paul recently had the pleasure of presenting Inspired Teamwork & Leadership to a stellar team of professionals at ALLTEL Communications. Based in Little Rock, Arkansas, America's largest wireless network consistently focuses on following a set of fundamentally sound management principles while paying close attention to their business priorities. This priority is evidenced by the dedication of ALLTEL's internal allies.

In keeping with the idea of courageous leadership in a highly competitive industry, Paul shared practices during his presentation that challenged ALLTEL's forward-thinking Finance organization to embrace the qualities of optimism, enthusiasm, selflessness and endurance in all areas of operation.

"Creating a new vision or revamping an existing idea takes time and perseverance," Paul noted. "The Finance team at ALLTEL epitomizes this concept!"

"What a privilege it was working with the team at ALLTEL," Paul continued. "I hope to have the honor again in the near future!"

Paul saw yet more evidence of the impact we have on one another when presenting It's Your Business, It's Your Name to the men and women of the North Little Rock School District in late May. Recognizing the importance of each and every person involved in the education of a student, from the cafeteria worker, to the bus driver to upper administration; Paul remarked on the potential each educator has for making a difference in the future of our youth.
